HOME HARDWARE

The National Flyer Project streamlines promotional material creation through three rotating teams of two members. By adhering to established design guidelines, the project ensures all flyers maintain a cohesive look, as if crafted by a single designer. Each team keeps up-to-date libraries and templates to enhance efficiency. Collaboration with Production Coordinators and Management allows for thorough development and proofing of each flyer, ensuring all materials meet organizational standards. This approach delivers high-quality promotional materials that resonate with audiences while maintaining a unified brand identity.

Sixtith Anniversary Logo

The 60th HomeHardware logo is consistently used in all nationwide promotional materials, creating a cohesive visual identity that resonates with customers.

Z FACTOR

I created a wide range of printable materials and downloadable that could be modified for participating internet companies, along with engaging social media campaigns and product collateral. My work involved generating multiple concepts and layouts for print and digital signage, banners, posters, and publications. I managed the production of various marketing projects, including e-newsletters, press releases, and flyers, ensuring cohesive campaigns that span from Google ads to billboards and postcards. Additionally, I designed and produced client catalogues and brand standard guidelines, adhering to the highest quality control standards.

OCTOPUS

Brand Guide

complex robot programming made simple

branding guide

About the name

OCTOPUZ needed a name that would be recognized and understood worldwide thereby creating that unforgettable first impression. If you can't capture the imagination of a human being and carve out a space in their mind – the brand has failed. We based the idea of a name only having "significant" by association.

After learning more about the octopus, we found consistency there was a nice alignment of the creature's capabilities with the performance attributes of the new software product. We wanted the name to be both unique and of the industry and a "Game Changer". We wanted the name (and the product) to make its own rules and change the landscape of robotic offline programming.

It is truly UNIQUE – nobody ever forgets that encounter with an octopus. People are taken aback by their mysterious, shape shifting form that makes it the master of its environment. Like the octopus in the sea, we want OCTOPUZ to dominate its category and be positioned far above the competition. The robotics industry is filled with look alike and sound alike software product names, unimaginative and obvious names, most of which are based on the term "robot". What creature better conjures up the notion of unique, multifaceted, multidimensional and multitasking than the octopus?

A quote that inspired

"Robotic experts long to understand octopus arm control. It may provide clues for building automotons that, unlimited by joints, can move in every dimension simultaneously."

Referring to OCTOPUZ

When referring to OCTOPUZ as the company you must refer to it as "OCTOPUZ Inc."

When referring to OCTOPUZ as the software you must refer to it as "OCTOPUZ".

Note: OCTOPUZ is capitalized in all instances.

When referring to OCTOPUZ in the possessive tense, simply add an apostrophe. Do not add an "s" at the end.

Example: OCTOPUZ's welding cell is the powerful tool with the software for programming robotic welding applications.

Describing OCTOPUZ Inc.

When describing OCTOPUZ Inc., you may use the following description:

For the past 15 years, OCTOPUZ Inc. has specialized in the design, development, implementation, and customization of superior Offline Robot Programming (OBPR) software for industrial robot applications. Working with the latest software development tools, robot technology and machinery while employing industry best practices, our objective is to ensure the interoperability between software, industrial robot, end-of-arm tooling, and robot cell machinery to optimize robot use in manufacturing applications.

Our focus is to provide an industrial robot software solution that not only enables companies to reach a higher level of efficiency with their processes but also opens opportunities for them to enter new markets and expand their business potential. OCTOPUZ Inc. was built on the concept of taking complex robotic programming and making it simple.

Complex robot programming made simple

Reduce programming time by automatically analyzing and solving errors in your robot toolpath

Offline Robot Programming keeps industrial robots online and working for you

Save time and money by drastically reducing your robot downtime

Offline Robot Programming is changing the future of manufacturing

OCTOPUZ Offline Robot Programming software is enabling the automation of tasks that are repetitive, tedious, unsafe, or unsuitable for workers by making it simple to program and reprogram industrial robots.

Logo Rationale

High Level Rationale:

Purple was the color worn by Roman Emperors and Magistrates. Since that time, purple has been commonly associated with royalty = PRESTIGE!

Turquoise (or teal) is the most prized color of the ancients, the dominant garniture in prehistoric jewelry. It is believed that the possession of turquoise warranted immortality. To this day there are millions that believe that turquoise has magical properties = SUPERSTITION!

The Colors Used:

Purple and teal aren't used by any major robotic companies or competitors.

- Purple and teal aren't used by any major robotic companies or competitors.
- Purple and teal are vibrant, stand out, complement each other well and are well liked.
- Great for use on collateral, product packaging, t-shirts and other swag. The logo also works in grayscale.
- Complementary colors that aren't the typical primary colors found in a lot of technology and software industries.

The Image:

- The image of the octopus is unique. Not cartoonish, not literal (a photo or true representation) but something that will get noticed, has a unique design and can one day stand alone.
- The tentacles, the head and the shape let you clearly deduce, at first glance, what this creature is.

Corporate Colors

The consistent use of the official colors is an essential element of corporate identity. All OCTOPUZ communications should only use two main colors chosen for their appearance and universal availability, OCTOPUZ Purple (Pantone 2995) and OCTOPUZ Blue (Pantone 3125) as the OCTOPUZ colors.

Four-color process

Four-color process: CMYK colors—cyan (C), magenta (M), yellow (Y), and black (K)—are the colors in "four color" printing. CMYK colors are subtractive—i.e., mixing multiple colors creates black.

Web Usage (RGB Color)

RGB (Red, green, and blue) refers to a system for representing the colors to be used on a computer display. Red, green, and blue can be combined in various proportions to obtain any color in the visible spectrum. Web safe colors are formed by (RGB) hex values.

Logo's Anatomy

The OCTOPUZ logo is made up of two components

To ensure consistency necessary to build a recognizable appearance, it is critical that the OCTOPUZ logo appear only in the colors and formats outlined in these guidelines. Use only the artwork supplied with these guidelines.

These two components are always placed in a horizontal or vertical fixed relationship and should never be altered, modified or reproduced in any other way.

About

The OCTOPUZ style guide provides the basis for a uniform image around the world. As communication becomes more intense, this guide is essential for our employees, customers, suppliers and partners to follow and adhere to for layout, messaging and images creating a consistent corporate brand.

These guidelines are intended as a practical aid that will facilitate everyday work. We provide information on corporate forms, how to refer to OCTOPUZ, how to use the OCTOPUZ logo, typography and images, and provide you with concrete examples for the purposes of orientation and implementation.

Naturally this style guide cannot include every conceivable kind of promotional material. The use of the logo design elements on new promotional material must always be coordinated in advance with marketing.

All the examples provided in this manual are typical examples of the consistent use of the OCTOPUZ brand.

About

Acumin is a versatile sans serif typeface family that is equally at home in text and headline settings. It's especially suitable for use in information design and anywhere a clean, modern aesthetic is needed. This original design by Adobe's principal designer Robert Slimbach brings a subtle balance to the architectural and modular form central to the neo-grotesque tradition. One of the most important aspects of communicating with type is to establish a strong typographic hierarchy. This refers to presenting the content in a way that visually conveys where to look, and in what sequence. The styling and placement of all elements - both type and images - should guide the viewer through the content in order of importance. The organizational system, or roadmap, is achieved through the use of both typographic and spatial elements; in combination, they create the desired effect. To begin the process, it's essential to understand the relative importance of all components of the content - which can include headlines, subhead, body text, pull quotes, icons, column headings, as well as other elements - and then design to visually reinforce this.

SUMMIT TOOLS

I led the production of weekly advertising materials for major newspapers, including the Vancouver Sun, Kelowna Daily Courier, and Kamloops Daily News. I wrote, edited, and distributed a 30-page monthly flyer to over 250,000 subscribers using Adobe CS, Excel, Procom, and Filemaker, increasing production by 50% through optimized images and templates. I also initiated and managed social media advertising on Facebook and Twitter. Additionally, I supervised and trained junior graphic designers on marketing procedures and brand identity, enhancing training capacity with a comprehensive 50-page "Graphic Design Position" manual.

ER & YYC

Optimized the corporate identity and brand standards for all companies establishing a stronger marketing plan for all 3 employment agencies targeting people with disabilities. Oversaw all promotional materials including business cards, posters, and pamphlets. Designed and implemented a brand-new website and Social Media presences on LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter for 3 companies and 2 of their connected companies Mission Driven Co. and Accessibility North. Enhanced communication with multiple departments by implementing new strategies and tracking boards for all projects. Updated all employment services documents to maintain a consistent brand and to be more visually accessible adhering to Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA) standards.

Duty To Accommodate participation from all is a win-win situation

Employers, Unions and workers all have a responsibility in order to accommodate due to illness, injury and removing barriers. They must work together to choose an appropriate accommodations on a case-by-case basis.

- The employer : to accommodate
- The union: to support and negotiate
- The worker : to participate

In order to accommodate a worker with a disability either physical or mental, the employer must fulfill the responsibilities under the Canadian Human Act & Employment Equity Act.

Process to Accommodate

- Determine barriers
- Explore the options to remove those barriers
- Accommodate to the point of undue hardship (health, safety & cost)

Once accommodation has been provided, the employee has the responsibility to meet all their job requirements and/or modified position. They must continue to work with their employer to make sure the accommodations remain effective.
